OUR COMMITMENT TO THE MISSION

To create a high quality emotional intelligence training program to help youth and adults get to know their minds better, especially emotionally—and improve their EQ; To continue to research and develop an even deeper understanding of the human mind to further advance our program.

We are committed to teach important lessons and share valuable knowledge from the broad spectrum that emotional intelligence encompasses. Our overall goal is to help bring out the best, emotionally, in each individual student, help keep them safe and improve their relationship with the outside world.

OUR COMMITMENT TO SHARING

To provide students with the best information we can at the most affordable prices.

We realize that those who need important information the most are too often those who can't afford it. With that in mind, we will share emotionally intelligent knowledge as generously as possible through our web site. We will share valuable information free of charge, resourceful materials at minimal costs, as well as links to other resources.

OUR COMMITMENT TO CREDIBILITY

To maintain the highest level of credibility in our program and staff.

Our public image is important to us, so if you have any questions or comments about our training program, our information and directions, or have suggestions about how we can improve anything we are doing, please don't hesitate to contact us.

EII is committed to fair and accurate information. If you believe we have made a mistake, we want to know about it. If you recognize that we have noted or done something questionable or erroneously, please let us know by:
